

Incorrect. The angle in standard position has its initial side on the x-axis and moves counter-clockwise to the terminal side, shown in the third quadrant. It measures 50° more than a straight angle.