

Perhaps you correctly recognized that there are two hills in the interval $[-2\pi, 2\pi]$, but thought that there was a single point on each hill where $\sin \theta = \frac{1}{2}$, but this is not so. Notice that on the hill the value of $\sin \theta$ goes up from 0 to 1, and then down from 1 to 0.