

You may have recognized that the given graph passes through the origin, as does the graph of $y = \sin \theta$. However, the given graph has a valley just to the right of the y -axis, while the graph of $y = \sin \theta$ has a hill just to the right of the y -axis.