

If you are starting with the graph of a sine function, and you multiply the function by -1 , what do you do to the original graph to get the graph of the new function?