

You were probably thinking about the effect on points above the x -axis, but the points that were below the x -axis move above the x -axis.