

This graph has the correct amplitude and period. However, it appears that you confused the effect of a negative sign on the inside with a negative sign on the outside. The effect of the negative sign is to reflect the graph around the  $y$ -axis. However, because the graph of cosine is symmetric, this has no effect at all.