

Three relationships are described below:

- I. The amount of fuel used on a trip increases as the size of the car increases and as the distance traveled increases.
- II. As the number of people helping mow a lawn increases, the time it takes to mow the lawn decreases.
- III. The cost of having a house painted increases as the size of the house increases.

What type of variation describes each relationship?