

Correct. Since the equations have the same slope but different y -intercepts, they are parallel and have no solution