

Incorrect. Does any single point lie on the graph of both equations? What does this mean about the number of possible solutions for the system?