

Correct. Rearranging the equations into $y = mx + b$, you see that the lines have different slopes and therefore must intersect at one point.