

The system has one solution; the two equations intersect at one point.