

Correct. By rearranging the bottom equation and solving it for y , you can see that the two equations have different slopes, so this must be the only solution.