Incorrect. Add the two equations together to eliminate the variable y. Solve the resulting equation for x, and substitute the value into either equation to find the value of y.