Correct. Use the formula $d = rt$ to represent both legs of the journey. Her outgoing trip can be represented by $d = r \cdot 1$, and her incoming trip can be represented by $d = (r - 4)(1.75)$, since her rate was 4 mph slower on the return trip.