Incorrect. The only way that a point can be a solution to the system is if both statements are true when the point is plugged into them. Check that your initial solution works for both inequalities.