

Incorrect. The equality of an expression is lost if the same operations are not done to both sides of the equation. The correct answer is to subtract 2 from both sides of the equation and then multiply both sides by 4.