

The volume of a rectangular box is its length times its width times its height. The volume of the box below (with a square base) is 1000 cubic centimeters. Determine s , the value (in centimeters) of the length and width of the box given that the height of the box is 10 cm.

