The volume of a square pyramid is $\frac{1}{3}$ times its height times the area of the (square) base. Given that the pyramid has volume V and height 30, determine s, the value of each side length of the base.