Incorrect. You need to isolate the variable by performing the reverse of the operations shown in the problem. The steps also must be done to each side of the equation, and in the correct order. The correct answer is to subtract 10 from both sides, and then to divide both sides by 9.