Correct. By following these steps, which would lead to x being equal to 5, you perform the inverse of the operation in the problem, and isolate the variable.