

Remember to write each variable with the correct exponent. The exponents should show that each variable is being multiplied by itself the appropriate number of times.