Remember that the domain will exclude all values for which the value of the denominator is 0. It is true that $x = -2$ should be excluded, but is there another value that should be excluded too?