

It is true that  $x = -8$  should be excluded, but is there another value that should be excluded too? Remember that the domain of the expression excludes all values for which the value of the denominator is 0, not just those that remain after the expression is simplified.