A student wants to solve a rational equation by multiplying the entire equation by a common denominator. He is solving this problem:

$$\frac{6}{x-2} - \frac{2x}{4} = 1$$

If he correctly multiplies by a common denominator, what could his equation look like?