A perfect square is the result of a whole number multiplied by itself, not a number multiplied by 2. The correct answer is: Yes, because if you construct a square with side lengths = 6 units, then the area of the square is 36 square units.