

The digit before the first comma does represent millions, and the digits between the commas do represent thousands.