

The value at point Q is greater than the value at point P.