

The value at point S is less than the value at point Q.