

A team of civil engineers uses two machines to drill through solid rock when they are building a tunnel. Machine A can drill through 500 inches of rock in t hours, while Machine B can drill through the same amount of rock but takes 1.5 times as long. When both machines are used, it takes them 1 hour to clear 500 inches. How long does it take each machine to clear 500 inches working independently?