Incorrect. Each logical statement has two parts. Remember that the hypothesis is the set of facts that you start with and the conclusion is the new fact you can infer if the hypothesis is true.