

Correct. Subtracting 8 from both sides of this inequality, you find that $x^2 < -3$. Since there are no values of x that, when squared, will yield a negative number, this statement can never be true for the set of real numbers.