Look at the following inequality:

"For all real numbers x, $x^2 > 0$"

Which value for x can be used as a counterexample to show that the statement is not always true?