Incorrect. Since the first ball is replaced, the result of the first event doesn't remove any possible outcomes. The events are independent and the probability of both events occurring is the product of the probabilities of the individual events.