Since the domain of the function is all real numbers, the range will not be discrete (separated points).