This answer is correct since the possible outputs of the function represented by the graph are the real numbers that are less than or equal to 4.