

Madison's mother showed her the following math trick:

"Think of a number between 5 and 10. Subtract 1, and multiply by 3. Now add 6. Divide by 3, and subtract your original number. I bet your answer is 1!"

Madison wanted to figure out how this trick worked, so she used deductive reasoning to make an argument. In which order should her argument be presented?