

You are given the following information about two numbers:

"The sum of the numbers is 8. If you add 1 to one number, you get double the other number."

From this information only, what can you deduce?