Incorrect. Use the Fundamental Counting Principle to compute the number of ways to pick 3 students in order from the 35-member band. Then divide by the number of ways to arrange the 3 students chosen (since the order doesn't matter). Next use the same strategy to compute the number of ways to form a 2-member committee. By the Fundamental Counting Principle, the product of the results will be the answer.