Correct. This is a system of two linear equations. Since the lines have different slopes, they must intersect at exactly one point.