

Incorrect. Knowing the first ball was striped, use the fact that there are now 29 balls left. Find the probability of getting a black ball and the probability of getting a white ball, then add these probabilities. Be sure to express the answer as a reduced fraction.