

A marble is launched from the ground into the sky, reaches its peak height, and then falls back to the ground.

If the path of the marble was mapped on the graph below, what would it look like?

