When Sophie and her dog go for a walk, Sophie keeps track of the time and distance they have walked. They always walk at the same constant rate so that the distance they go is proportional to th e amount of time they have been walking. If it takes 30 minutes to walk around the park three times, how many minutes will it take them to walk around the park twice?