Do not multiply the whole number parts and the fractional parts separately. You must first change each number to an improper fraction, then multiply numerators and multiply denominators.