

1,000 has three zeros, so the decimal point gets moved three places to the left. This is not the same as having three zeros after the decimal point. The correct answer is 0.0060429.