

Adding denominators does not give you the least common denominator. These fractions are not equivalent to the original fractions. The least common multiple of 10 and 14 is 70, so rewrite both fractions with a denominator of 70.