

The number to the right of the decimal point is written "three hundred six," not "thirty-six." Also, there are three places to the right of the decimal point, so the last word in the word form should be "thousandths," not "hundredths." The answer is five and three hundred six thousandths.