Incorrect. Remember to change each mixed number into an improper fraction, then multiply the first fraction by the reciprocal of the second fraction. You can also reorder the numerators before multiplying to see a fraction that has a common factor.