An output (y-value) can occur more than once, but an input (x-value) cannot correspond to more than one output. In this case, the input 1 corresponds to two different outputs (2 and 6), so the ordered pairs do not represent a function.