

Pay attention to the placement of the decimal point. The factors have a total of three decimal places, so the product should also have three decimal places. The correct answer is 4.115.