

Pay attention to the placement of the decimal point. The factors have a total of two decimal places, so the product should also have two decimal places.